

American Device = Florence Manufacturing

As a dynamic company, Florence Corporation significantly expanded its product offering in July 1998 with the acquisition of the American Device Postal Specialties line. A perfect complement to Florence postal specialties, American Device mailbox products have been known for their strength, security, and long lasting durability.

Florence Manufacturing is pleased to continue to offer the American Device 2600 horizontal mailbox line today.

This STD-4B+ high security vault-type product provides extra security with its unique three-point locking system. Available in both front- and rear-load options, the American Device horizontal mailbox series is for indoor use only and is USPS Approved for replacement purposes.
